In areas where trees or hedges are to be planted adjacent to the proposed rising main or its easement, a root barrier should be installed over the rising main. All trees and hedges located outside of easements to reduce conflict but root barriers are advisable.